PRACTICE AREA

Trusts and Estates

Allison Pedrazzi (“Allie”) is an associate in the firm’s Trusts and Estates practice, where she works with families and individuals in all aspects of estate planning, trust and probate administration, and related real estate, tax and business succession issues. Allie draws on her personal experience with her family’s trust administration to assist families in evaluating their goals and options before crafting detailed and personalized plans.

In her years of practice in corporate and real estate law, Allie gained extensive experience working with complex business structures in a wide variety of industries, which she brings to her work in succession planning and generational wealth transfer.

Allie lives in Davis with her husband and young daughter, and enjoys being part of the vibrant Central Valley community.
